SPECIFYING HACKING-RESISTANT ACCESS CONTROL

By Scott Lindley
President, Farpointe Data, Inc.

As seen in The Construction Specifier

Hacking has become a far bigger threat than most think. Indeed, the greatest risk to national security comes from not from aircraft carriers or infantry divisions, but a computer with a simple Internet connection located anywhere in the world. The U.S. federal government suffered a staggering 61,000 known cybersecurity breaches last year alone. Protecting users from professional hackers is imperative for specifiers.
